SOME SAFE STORIES.

Amusing Incidents Connected with the Safe-Maker's Business.

A Boston safe-maker recently gave to a Courier reporter a few amusing incidents connected with his business. Locks, of course, will sometimes get out of order and when a business man can not lock his safe, or, worse yet, can not unlock it, he loses no time in sending to headquarters for help.

Not long ago we received a hurried message from one of our customers, whose safe door had suddenly refused to shut far enough to allow the bolts to be thrown. A workman hastened to the establishment, and glancing about the entrance to the safe, noticed a cent resting on one of the bottom flanges. He picked it up, and the door shut and locked without any further trouble. The bill for the workman's time was probably large enough to prevent a repetition of the occurrence.

In another case of the same sort a button from a lady's dress was found by the expert in one of the lower bolt holes.

Some years ago we delivered a new set of vault doors for a bank about two hundred miles away. Just as the bank was ready to go into its new quarters we had a telegram to send a man at once. The bolts of the outer door would not throw far enough to lock it.

Our man started off forthwith, and this is what he found: The bank officers had fitted a board flooring into the vestibule of the vault, but had omitted to bore holes in it to allow for the throw of the bolts. An auger and ten minutes' work set every thing right, but they made that piece of board a rather expensive luxury.

Our morning mail brought a letter from a man three hundred miles from Boston. His safe could not be opened, and he was in a distressing plight. Would we send an expert at once?

Our man picked up his kit, took the next train, and arrived at the customer's office the next morning. The safe proved to be an old-fashioned one, with a large key-lock.

"There," said the owner, "there is the safe. The lock has been working harder and harder for weeks, and now I am locked out. I must have some of my documents immediately. Never mind the damage, but break into it in short order."

The expert tried the key, but it refused to work. Then he took a small wire and picked out half a thimbleful of dirt and lint. He tried it again, and a better-working lock was never seen.

"How much is your bill?" asked the customer.

"Forty dollars."

"All right. That is perfectly satisfactory, on one condition. Does any one in the place know your business here?"

"No one."

"Very good. Get out by the next train and keep mum. I'd rather pay a hundred dollars than have any of my friends know that I sent to Boston for a man to pick the dirt out of my key."

A SHIN-SAVING SCHEME.

The Original Plan Discovered by a Washington Woman.

The man who says that women have not originality not only speaks untruth, but deceives himself says the Washington Post. Every one has had occasion to go through a room in the dark on more or less frequent nightly occasions, when locking the back door had been forgotten or the pitcher of ice-water omitted from the nightly preparations for slumber, and every one knows how each individual piece of furniture in each dark room traversed, including the piano's sharp corners and the rocking-chair's twin projections, is collided with. And all these hard knocks are sustained by the stretch of bone from the knee to the ankle that is commonly called the "shin," and is particularly sensitive because it has no layer of muscle, merely a coat of sensitive skin to protect it. When open doors are run against the nose suffers. Now, there is a young Mrs. D—, whose blue-eyed baby is a year and a half old, and not infrequently does Mrs. D— have to get up of a night, go down-stairs to the refrigerator, and get milk for baby. She does not say how often or how seriously she was hurt before her genius suggested the brilliant plan which she now has for avoiding these petty nocturnal injuries, but she really is proud of her plan for getting unscathed through a room in the dark, and has imparted it to her lady-neighbors. It is too clever an idea to be lost, and its great merit is in its simplicity. The scheme is merely to walk backward. In the dark one can see as well going backward as forward, of course. The lower limbs are, when going backward, well protected from slight raps by the more or less liberal pad of muscle at the calf, and heels are less sensitive than the toes. And if one is to run into a door the blow can be better borne on the back of the head than on the face. Mrs. D. is a genius.

IN ROYAL CIRCLES.

THE Empress of Austria is charged with smoking from thirty to forty cigarettes a day.

EMPEROR WILLIAM has only portraits of Bismarck and Von Moltke in the music-room of his private yacht, the Hohenzollern.

THE German Emperor is a clever artist, and can dash off a bold sketch in oil that would be creditable to many professional painters.

PRINCE ALBERT VICTOR is the only son of a Prince of Wales who has taken his seat in the House of Lords before his father's accession to the throne.

QUEEN VICTORIA has sent a splendid cradle, richly ornamented, to her great-grandson, the infant of the Duke and Duchess of Gloucester on the whole outfit for the child was bought in England by the Empress Frederick.

CARMEN STILVA, the Roumanian Queen, was admitted into the Bardic Circle at the recent Welsh Eisteddfod and given the blue ribbon of the order. She didn't have to ride the goat, but was compelled to listen to the singing of a large number of Welsh poems.

BISMARCK is not a good conversationalist and is a worse orator. While making a public address he sways himself backward and forward, twirls his thumbs, occasionally looks at a scrap of paper upon which he has written some notes, and altogether is a very good imitation of a man who is embarrassed if not intimidated. Still Bismarck always manages to say something worth while.

FEW Princesses in the royal and semi-royal houses of Europe are so sensible as the Princess Maria Anna of Portugal, who is about to marry an untitled doctor of medicine. In reply to an intimate friend who asked her recently how she could marry a man of such low rank, when so many princely suitors were at her disposal, she said: "I prefer to marry a man without a name, rather than a name without a man."

QUEEN VICTORIA's family circle now numbers fifty living descendants, including sons and daughters, grandsons, granddaughters, great-grandsons and great-granddaughters. Besides these she has four sons-in-law, four daughters-in-law, five grandsons-in-law, and one granddaughter-in-law. The Queen has lost one son and one daughter, five grandsons, one granddaughter, one great-grandson and one son-in-law. If these were living, her family circle would number seventy-four.

LADY EDITH WARD, the prospective bride of Count Herbert Bismarck, is said to be very highly educated but not beautiful. She is tall, with rather dull, brown eyes, and wears her hair braided around her head in somewhat antiquated fashion. Young Bismarck's father is not in favor of the match. Lady Edith was presented at court, at her Majesty's last drawing-room, by her mother, the Countess of Dudley, and was attractively attired in white corded silk draped with soft silk crape and pearl trimmings.

She Was Too Fascinating.

The proprietress of a cafe on the Boulevard des Italiens recently said to a young and impetuous journalist: "This is the sixth time you have been here without saying a word about the money you owe me, monsieur! What am I to understand by it?" "Ah, madame," said the witty journalist, "when one sees you one forgets every thing."

Medicine for Throat and Lung Difficulties has long been, and still is, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It cures Croup, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, and Asthma; soothes irritation of the Larynx and Fauces; strengthens the Vocal Organs; allays soreness of the Lungs; prevents Consumption, and, even in advanced stages of that disease, relieves Coughing and induces Sleep. There is no other preparation for diseases of the throat and lungs to be compared with this remedy.

"My wife had a distressing cough, with pains in the side and breast. We tried various medicines, but none did her any good until I got a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which has cured her. A neighbor, Mrs. Glenn, had the measles, and the cough was relieved by the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I have no hesitation in recommending this to every one afflicted."—Robert Foreman Headlight, Morrilton.

Cough Medicine

"I have been afflicted with a violent cough, which threatened to terminate my days. Every one pronounced me in consumption. I determined to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Its effects were magical. I was immediately relieved and continued to improve until entirely recovered."—Joel Bulard, Guilford, Conn.

"Six months ago I had a severe hemorrhage of the lungs, brought on by an incessant cough which deprived me of sleep and rest. I tried various remedies, but obtained no relief until I began to take Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. A few bottles of this medicine cured me."—Mrs. E. Coburn, 19 Second st., Lowell, Mass.

"For children afflicted with colds, coughs, sore throat, or croup, I do not know of any remedy which will give more speedy relief than Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I have found it, also, invaluable in cases of Whooping Cough."—Ann Lovejoy, 1257 Washington street, Boston, Mass.
